WILL NOT ACCEPT THE SURRENDERS

City Council Indicates it Will Fight
Effort of Two Gas Companies to Take Rate Question.

BEFORE STATE COMMISSION

With Exception of Raising Water
Rate, No Action on I. & C.
Meter Case Will be Taken Now.

The city council last night ordered the contract for water at the I. & C. car barns at ten cents a thousand gallons revoked, and ordered the clerk to notify the traction people that hereafter they would be required to pay the regular rate of twenty cents a thousand gallons.

The contract with the I. & C. for water at ten cents a thousand gallons was made back in the Cowing administration after a water bill at the car barns had been compromised. The council at that time went on the theory that the larger the consumer the cheaper the water should be. For some unknown reason the meter at the car barn had never been read during the administration before Cowing's and when the Republicans came in power they found the meter. As near as it could be told the meter showed $1,100 due the city. The bill was compromised for $500 and the contract that was revoked last night was made.

The action of the I. & C. in asking for a meter inspection by the Public Service commission caused considerable comment in the council. The city seemed satisfied to let the test of the meter stand for itself and the water committee has the utmost confidence in the meter. A copy of the petition as filed by the I. & C. with the commission has not yet reached the council. No action on the question will be taken until then. The petition charges the city is not conforming with the law and that it has discriminated in rates.

That the city intends to fight the proposed raise in gas rates of the Peoples and the Central Fuel companies was indicated last night when the city clerk was instructed to return the written notice of the surrender of the franchise of these two companies. In this manner the council has refused to allow the companies to surrender their franchises.

The question of oiling the streets was again discussed. The council seemed to be in favor of ordering all streets oiled, letting the contract and charging the work to the abutting property owners. In order to rush the work it will be necessary to hold a number of special meetings and all the members were willing to do this in order to get the streets oiled. A majority of the council favored using one-third of a gallon of oil to the square yard. The plans of the old council called for a half to three-quarters of a gallon to the square yard. Those opposed to oiling may remonstrate under the law.

The street and alley committee was instructed to consult a civil engineer regarding plans and report at the next meeting. The committee is to decide on whom they will employ and make known their choice to the council. An ordinance will be passed and the plans approved, and then the city will be ready to let the contract.

Water, water wells and meters was the chief topic of discussion before the council. Superintendent Mahin reported that the work of cleaning out the wells was progressing nicely and the results already have justified the expense. One well in Arthur street, he stated, tested better after

DIES AFTER LONG ILLNESS

Mrs. Goldie Carr Passed Away Near Milroy.

Mrs. Lena Carr, 30 years old, wife of Goldie Carr, died last night at seven o'clock at her home two miles southeast of Milroy, after a long illness from tuberculosis. Mrs. Carr had been ill for about five years and for the past two years had been bedfast. She is survived by her husband and one son. The funeral services will be conducted Sunday morning at 10:30 o'clock in the Milroy Christian church and burial will take place in the Milroy cemetery.

TWO DIVORCES GRANTED TODAY

Fannie M. Beal and Elizabeth S. Bennett Are Both Forbidden to Marry For Two Years.

LAWYER WINS HIS FEE CASE

Fannie May Beal was granted a divorce this morning by Judge Megee from William Porter Beal. The complaint alleges cruel and inhuman treatment and in granting the divorce Judge Megee ruled that she should not remarry for a period of two years. He is not a resident of the state and the prosecutor appeared for the state. Samuel L. Trabue represented Mrs. Beal.

Elizabeth S. Bennett was granted a divorce from James Gordon Bennett. He defaulted. Mrs. Bennett is also not to remarry within two years.

The jury yesterday afternoon in the case of Robert H. Kinney against the Shelby Loan company, demanding $70.50 alleged to be due him in commissions, found for Kinney and gave him the entire amount asked. The jury was out about thirty minutes.

FIRE DOES SMALL DAMAGE

Loss of Alvin Hinchman Home Fully Covered by Insurance.

The residence of Alvin Hinchman, 721 North Main street, was slightly damaged by fire yesterday afternoon shortly after four o'clock. The fire was confined to the roof and is supposed to have started from a defective flue. The loss is not thought to be more than $300 and is fully covered by insurance. When the department arrived the entire roof seemed to be on fire but the department by effective work kept the blaze to the roof. Very little water was used and the chemicals played a big part in extinguishing the fire. A total of $2625 in insurance was carried on the house and household goods.

OPENING POSTPONED.

The annual spring opening at E. R. Casady's dry goods store, which was scheduled to take place today, was postponed until Monday because of the inclement weather. Extensive preparations have been made for the opening.

GRAHAM TEAM WON.

The team from the Graham school grades defeated the grade team of the Catholic school last night, 16 to 11 in a fast basketball game. The game was played in the Catholic hall.

The Russian empire's population is estimated at 176,000,000.

ONE OF WORLD'S GREAT UPLIFTS

Catch-My-Pal Movement, Which Will be Explained Here, is Effective Helper of Men.

GETS "DOWN-AND-OUTERS"

Dr. R. J. Patterson, its Founder, Will Give Two Addresses Here Sunday, Afternoon and Night.

One of the world's greatest uplift movements will be brought to Rushville Sunday by Dr. Robert J. (Catch-my-Pal) Patterson of Belfast, Ireland; one of the most picturesque and effective helpers of men ever heard in America.

The visit of Dr. Patterson was brought about by the National Reform Association with which organization Dr. Patterson is now co-operating in an effort to spread the Catch-my-Pal movement around the world.

"Drunks," "Down-and-Outers," Social Outcasts and Ne'er-do-Wells are the special and preferred objectives of the Cath-my-Pal workers.

"Entirely too many smug clergymen are busy preserving the preserved" declared Dr. Patterson.

"Some preachers expect better people in their pews than Christ ever taught," he asserts.

"Those who are down need the help of those who are up. Those who are up owe it to themselves to go down after the lowly. Christ did," cries the father of the greatest temperance movement ever instituted in Great Britain.

The theory of the Catch-my-Pal movement is much the same as the familiar endless chain effort. One man goes to the front and declares himself done with rum. He is not permitted to sign a pledge at that time. He must go out and bring in his Pal and induce that Pal to sign also—when he has another man in line for the pledge. Then it becomes the duty of all who have signed to see that one another keeps the pledge. In the practical working out of the plan some of the Pals have been more forceful than gentle; more drastic than diplomatic, more earnest than considerate but, all in all, the signers keep their pledges "or their beds," as Dr. Patterson naively puts it.

Dr. Patterson scored such a tremendous personal triumph at the great Second World Christian Citizenship Conference, held at Portland, Oregon, last summer that he has already been listed on the program for the Third World Christian Citizenship Conference to be held in 1916.

The Catch-my-Pal movement is one branch of the whole great temperance movement now sweeping over the world. The National Reform Association is co-operating with it just as it co-operates with the Board of Temperance of the Presbyterian church; the W. C. T. U. and Anti-Saloon League of America and all the other organizations more intimately identified with temperance work and thus is welding these tremendous forces together into a concerted effort, each maintaining its own definite organization. Never before in all the history of the temperance work has there been such unity of action as now when more than 100 separate organizations are working in entire accord to a common end.

Here at 2 p. m. Sunday Dr. Patterson will speak at the Mens Mass Meeting in the M. E. church for men only, and at 7 p. m. at a Union Mass meeting in the Christian church. Dr. Patterson will be at the Seaman House.

BOY SENT FROM HERE PAROLED

Youth Sentenced Under Name of William K. Scott is Really William K. McFerrin.

BEEN IN INSANE HOSPITAL

Recalled That he Placed Obstruction on Pennsylvania Track Near Wreck Train.

William K. McFerrin, who was sentenced to from two to fourteen years in the reformatory at Jeffersonville from the local circuit court in November last year for obstructing a railroad track, yesterday was paroled by Governor Ralston.

He was sentenced from here under the name of William K. Scott. It developed that Scott, or McFerrin, which is his real name, had escaped from an Indianapolis institution for the insane and came here.

He placed two large stones on the track of the Pennsylvania railway near this city and was arrested. He pleaded guilty before Judge Megee.

It will be recalled that the case was one of the most difficult the local officers have had to deal with, as they were almost certain that the boy was feeble-minded.

Under the circumstances there was nothing for Judge Megee to do but sentence him. Sentence was quite spirited. It was not decided until late yesterday afternoon who was the successful bidder. The bids were opened in the office of J. A. Shelton, trustee of Walker township, in Manilla. The contract for the plumbing and heating was deferred until today.

It is planned to start work on the new building at once and it will be completed for the opening of the school year next fall. The building will be modern in every respect and will be one of the finest in the country. To erect the building it was necessary to pass a bond issue of $23,720 and this was sold yesterday to the Fletcher American bank of Indianapolis for par and $615.75 premium.

HE PREPARES TO MOVE ON TORREON

Gen. Villa, Mexican Rebel Leader, Recaptures Suburb After Bloodiest Battle of Career.

HEAVY LOSS ON BOTH SIDES

(By United Press)

Gomez, Palacio, Mex., Mar. 27.—Having captured this place from the Federal defenders after a fierce battle during which artillery was used effectively by both sides, General Villa today made final arrangements for the care of his dead and wounded before giving the order for a final assault on Torreon.

Villa said that the fighting to recover the town was the bloodiest battle of his military career. Losses on both sides were very heavy. There was no estimate of the dead and wounded. After the Rebels regained control of Gomez Palacio the rifle fire slackened. The Rebel artillery continued to shell Torreon steadily. At daylight Villa ordered his soldiers to attend the dead and wounded.

Villa told the correspondent he hopes to take Torreon today but was making no promises.

"Wait and see," was his remark.

BANKER INDICTED.

(By United Press)

Washington, Mar. 27.—Wade Cooper, a local banker, was today indicted on a charge of criminal libel by the District of Columbia grand jury as a result of his recent accusations against Justice Daniel T. Wright of the District of Columbia supreme court.

THIRD EXAM. TOMORROW

Large Per Cent of Teachers Passed Last One Held Here.

The third teachers' examination will be held tomorrow. A record number took the last examination. On the last examination twenty-six out of seventy-four applicants for licenses passed. Fourteen sent their papers to the state superintendent and eight of these passed. Mr. George graded sixty papers and eighteen passed. The reason given for the larger per cent of those passing who sent their papers to the state superintendent is that they were all experienced teachers.

TIPTON MAN GETS MANILLA CONTRACT

Charles S. Williams Will Build the New Walker Township School House For $29,784.

TO BE FINISHED NEXT FALL

The contract for the new Manilla school building was awarded to Charles S. Williams of Tipton. His bid was $29,784 and was the lowest received. In all eleven bids were received and the fight for the contract was quite spirited. It was not decided until late yesterday afternoon who was the successful bidder. The bids were opened in the office of J. A. Shelton, trustee of Walker township, in Manilla. The contract for the plumbing and heating was deferred until today.

It is planned to start work on the new building at once and it will be completed for the opening of the school year next fall. The building will be modern in every respect and will be one of the finest in the country. To erect the building it was necessary to pass a bond issue of $23,720 and this was sold yesterday to the Fletcher American bank of Indianapolis for par and $615.75 premium.

BELIEVE THAT IT IS MAE SIMPSON

Woman Answering Description of One Who Has Been at the Rush County Races Sent to Prison

ALL TALLIES BUT LAST NAME

Several Rushville people were speculating today about the dispatch from Marion stating that Mrs. Mae Knipp, who, with her race horse, Black Lad, is known on nearly every race course in Indiana, was found guilty in the circuit court last night of the theft of a set of harness and was sentenced to from one to eight years in the state woman's prison.

The fact that the woman lives in Marion, is a race horse driver and her first name is Mae, led to the belief that she was none other than Mae Simpson, who has been here several seasons at the Rush county fair with her horse. It is generally known here that Mae Simpson was not the real name of the woman who has raced here. One of her horses was known as Black Lad and she gave her home as Marion.

The woman who was sentenced as Mrs. Knipp is in jail, but expects to give bond and will appeal the case.

PRESIDENT AND CLARK OPEN WAR

Breach Between Speaker of House and Wilson Clear at Opening of Tolls Fight Today.

Floor Leader Underwood, Whose Successor is Named, Assails Policy of the President.

(By United Press)

Washington, Mar. 27.—The House late today adopted the rule limiting debate on the Panama canal tolls repeal to thirty hours. The ballot was 200 to 172. This opened the tolls fight in dead earnest. The privilege of demanding the bill is not yet given. Representative Kitchen was elected successor to Underwood as a majority floor leader.

By a vote of 207 to 176, the House earlier in the day closed the debate on the rule for consideration of the free tolls repeal resolution. This was the first test vote and indicated the passage of the rule limiting the debate and as well the strength of the President's backers on the repeal fight itself.

The Indiana delegation voted solidly with the President's forces in the first test.

Speaker Clark voted against closing the debate.

Open war to the knife was declared between President Wilson and Speaker Clark. There partisans in the House showed the issue clearly. A dozen administration Democrats met in Representative Adamson's office and decided to accept the battle gage offered by Clark.

In an open and bitter assault on the speaker, "for knifing the President," the mere question of repeal of tolls exemption was overshadowed by this open breach of leaders.

Adamson was chosen to start the speech. Though he did not mean Clark, his inferences were pointed.

"A call to arms" to all Democrats as well as "patriotic Republicans and Progressives" to support the President on the repeal question was made by Adamson.

"The President has come down and told us that in order to assure successful conduct of the foreign affairs of this government, this repeal should

URGES SEAMEN BE VACCINATED

Lake and River Shipmen Warned

Against Typhoid Fever by

Surgeon General Blue

RATE CONSIDERED TOO HIGH

Has Long Since Passed Experimental

Stage and is Insurance Against

The Disease

(By United Press.)

Washington, Mar. 27.—Vaccination against typhoid fever among lake and river seamen is urged upon managers and masters of lake and river vessels in an open letter sent out today by Surgeon General Blue of the Public Health Service.

Surgeon Blue told the shipmen that the rate of typhoid among sailors on lake and river vessels is undoubtedly too high. He pointed out that during the year ending June 30, 1913, 392 cases of typhoid fever among seamen employed aboard merchant vessels were treated at United States marine hospitals and that in addition to these many cases were treated at other hospitals and at home.

"The question of typhoid prevalence is of prime importance from the standpoint of health conservation and financial welfare," said Surgeon General Blue. "Hospital experience

AFTER COUGHING TWO YEARS

Waycross, Ga., Woman Found Relief in Vinol.

Did you ever cough for a week? Then just think how distressing it must be to have a cough hang on for two years.

Mrs. D. A. McGee, Waycross, Ga., says: "I had a very heavy cold which settled in to a chronic cough which kept me awake nights for fully two years, and felt tired all the time. The effect of taking your cod liver and iron remedy, Vinol, is that my cough is gone. I can now get a good night's rest and I feel much stronger in every way. I am 74 years old."

It is the combined action of the medicinal elements of the cod's livers, aided by the blood-making and strength-creating properties of tonic iron which makes Vinol so efficient for chronic coughs, colds and bronchitis—at the same time building up the weakened, run-down system.

Try a bottle of Vinol with the understanding that your money will be returned if it does not help you. F. B. Johnson & Co Druggists Rushville.

has demonstrated that the average seaman who has an attack of typhoid loses in actual working time as the result of his illness, from two to four months. Taking two and one-half months, which is a fairly low average, as the individual loss in time, and $1.50 as the average daily wage of the employe, it is seen that the above mentioned 392 cases represent in the aggregate a loss of 80 years in actual working time, and of $44,000 in wages. In terms of cold dollars and cents alone this is a rather heavy price to pay for an entirely preventable disease."

The letter pointed that the close association of men aboard ship, the variations in their food and drinking water and the constantly roving life of the sailor, typhoid represented a constant menace to seamen. Municipal safeguards thrown around citizens on shore are totally lacking, the surgeon general showed, and often the disease spread from one case to twenty or more men because of failure to take necessary sanitary precaution.

Vaccination against typhoid has passed the experimental stage, Surgeon General Blue said, and its success has been proven both by results obtained in the United States and in Europe.

"Not only are the military establishments availing themselves of this form of insurance against disease and death, but throughout the country, many municipal health authorities are bending every endeavor to similarly fortify the citizens of their respective communities," said the surgeon general. "Therefore, a display of interest and action on the part of the ship companies, owners, agents, captains, seamen's unions, and others in authority toward the furtherance of a campaign of education in typhoid prophylaxis will not certainly be of great value against this disease."

"The United States Public Health Service is ready and willing to render any assistance, and at all relief stations throughout the country service officers are instructed to administer the typhoid prophylactic to all sailors applying for same."

—Beads are being blazoned forth on everything. Not the gobular beads of yore but tubular effects add dash to tunics, scarves, and gown draperies. Beaded wraps of diaphanous chiffon are very popular and lovely; and belts, buckles, bandeaus, slippers, stockings, and gloves are beaded lavishly. The exquisite old fashioned beaded bags and reticules once more are all the rage, and even parasols are indulging in an eruption of beads like a spring rash. To bead or not to bead is no longer the question. It has been answered by the affirmative by the mad rush of all things sartorial to get a bead on.

The Way the Wind Blows.

Almost every day a vote or primary some place or other in the United States show which way the wind is blowing. The latest wind blows in from the seventh congressional district in New Jersey. A primary was held there this week to select candidates to be voted on to elect a successor to Congressman Bremner, a Democrat, who died recently of cancer.

That the district is overwhelming Democrat was attested at the last election when Bremner was elected by a large majority. But at the primary, the Republican vote rolled up to within a few votes of nine thousand, the Democratic vote was 4,500, the Socialist vote was 700 and the Progressive 400.

No sane man can deny what those results mean. Not alone do they show the almost unbelievable trend of former Progressives to the Republican party, but the great majority of Republicans over Democrats. The party whose funeral rites has been sung time and time again polled twice as many votes as the Democratic party, which has control in both houses of congress and the ability to enact all of its ideas into law.

The primary shows that the tariff, currency and other acts of the present national administration are not as popular as advocates of the Wilson regime would make you believe. The primary was just the test, but the real test will come Tuesday, April 7 when the election will be held. It will be the first election where national issues are involved since the Democrats in congress have enacted any laws. As this district goes, so will go the districts next fall, in all probability.

Making Town Flyless

Bloomington has taken up the swatter and is going to drive the flies out of town. But Bloomington is not going to do it in the old prosaic way, with swatters and several pairs of hands. The Bloomington city council has enlisted in the good cause and is going to make Bloomington flyless by preventing them.

The council has just passed a garbage ordinance which went into effect automatically with its passage. The measure is a model for its kind. It will starve all flies to death and the Bloomington people will rejoice in health and happiness.

The measure provides for the use of galvanized containers for garbage, and requires that fly proof holders be used for trash and manure.

For violations of the sections of the garbage ordinance a fine of not less than $10 or more than $50 is provided.

The new ordinance provides that that animal manure and trash shall be protected from flies; that filth must not be allowed to accumulate in house, barn, stable and factory yards or on vacant lots; that vaults, cesspools and other receptacles shall be made fly proof; that garbage shall be placed in galvanized iron cans provided with lids to make them flyproof; trash and litter shall not be allowed to accumulate to provide breeding places for flies, rats and a source of danger from fire.

The difference between garbage and trash is defined in the measure. It becomes a finable offense to leave trash in an alley or street more than two hours and property owners are required to leave their garbage cans where they may be easily reached by the city collector.

In cases of violations of the ordinance the city health officer is required to give notice. Then if the property owner does not comply, the street commissioner is instructed to have the work done. The costs will be paid by the city and then charged up as a lien on the property.

Stables, the measure requires, are to be cleaned every day during the months of April, May, June, July and August. The manure is to be kept in fly proof and water tight pits or boxes.

Easy Economy.

Speaking of economy in the home, a prominent charity worker said:

"There was a lot of truth in the remark of the poor, harassed east side housewife whose husband complained:

"I wish you would be more economical, Mary. Look at the boss' wife, how economical she is!"

"Yes," Mary replied, "it's easy enough for the boss' wife to be economical. She's got plenty to be economical with!"—Exchange.

Rushville Has to Bow to the Inevitable—Scores of Citizens Prove it.

After reading the public statement of this representative citizen of Rushville given below, you must come to this conclusion: A remedy which proved so beneficial years ago with the kidneys can naturally be expected to perform the same work in similar cases. Read this:

Harrison Levi, 931 N. Sexton St., Rushville, Ind., says: "I had to get up several times at night to pass the kidney secretions, which were sometimes attended with pain. I had severe backaches, too. I finally got Doan's Kidney Pills at Johnson & Co's Drug Store and it did not take them long to make me well. The pains left and the action of my kidneys became regular. I am now free from kidney weakness. I am glad to confirm what I said about Doan's Kidney Pills in my former endorsement."

(By United Press.)

Bloomington, Ind., March 27.

Known only to thousands of persons who have passed through the Monon station during the past few months as "the woman at the newspaper stand" Miss Nellie G. Robinson, it was learned today was the author of a book "Philo's Daughter" which ran through a large edition in Cincinnati not long since.

Unable to stand the expense of subsequent editions, Miss Robinson has never had other copies published and as present, has only four of the originals. Living a simple life she finds the income from the news stand sufficient for her needs. She is a member of the bar at Cincinnati, being the first woman lawyer to be admitted there.

The story, she said, came to her in a large hall with thousands of women stretching forth their arms to her pleading for help. An angel appeared at her side and waving his arm said "Write for These." The next morning she planned the story which is a romance of the Christians in the time of Christ.

OPPOSITION TO CONVENTION

Forces Already at Work Against Proposed Constitutional Call as Proposed by Democrats

MANY THINGS ARE INVOLVED

Resolutions Merely Endorsed Action of Legislature and Not Convention Unique in History.

(By United Press.)

Indianapolis, Ind., March 27.—When the resolutions committee of the Democratic convention mentioned the constitutional convention, it did not endorse this convention, but merely endorsed the action of the 1913 legislature in referring the matter to the people to decide at the polls in November. This vote on the constitutional convention is seven months off, but already it is apparent here that certain forces are forming in firm opposition to the convention. If it becomes a reality, the forces favoring it must prepare for a fight involving all the bitterness and expense of a liquor fight, all the diplomacy and tact of a suffrage fight, and including several loose ends to complicate matters.

"The constitutional convention is the real vital thing before the state of Indiana today. The declaration for direct primaries is a mere bagatelle in comparison. Indiana is going to see one of the biggest fights in its history on this question of a constitutional convention," was the way the situation was described to the United Press by a man at the statehouse who is a close observer.

Politicians generally today believed that the real issue would be drawn between those for and against state-wide elimination of the saloon and those favoring and opposed to woman suffrage. In addition, there will be a considerable number that believes the present constitution stands in the way of the initiative and referendum, the workman's compensation law, and such "administrative reforms" as the short ballot home rule for cities (such as at Dayton, Ohio) and taxation reform.

The impression here today was that those who favored the convention had not yet appreciated the fight that is coming, and that they were not as well organized as the forces opposed to the convention. That they will organize is deemed certain. It is also believed that their success will depend largely on the closeness of the organization. Observers predicted today that the anti-saloon forces and suffrage forces will unite and that possibly those favoring "administrative reforms" will join them.

"That the fight will be non-partisan is practically certain," said a politician today. "No party will stand against the convention. The opponents of it, however, will be drawn from all parties."

This election in November will be unique in the history of Indiana. It will be the first at which a United States senator is chosen by the direct ballot. It will also decide whether Indiana is to have its million-dollar centennial building, to relieve what is said to be a congested condition at the state house.

If present predictions are fulfilled, the fight over the convention will overshadow these other issues. The attempt to make Indiana dry through a constitutional provision, obtained in a convention of non-partisan delegates, will bring such strenuous objections from the liquor forces that this fight will hold the center of the state.

Edward S. Shumaker, state superintendent of the Indiana Anti-Saloon league, has confidently predicted that Indiana would be dry following a constitutional convention. He has predicted that the dry forces would certainly capture the majority of the delegates, which would be sufficient, and that as a result the saloons in such cities as Indianapolis, Evansville, Terre Haute, South Bend and Fort Wayne would be closed by the decision of the rural communities.

That this is feared by the liquor men is evidenced by conversations of everyday occurrence in the saloons in Indianapolis. Patrons ask the bartender his opinion and are reassured. The liquor forces, however, would much prefer to win the preliminary battle and prevent the constitutional convention.

The examination for the Glenwood postoffice will be held in the court house here tomorrow. There are six applicants for the place. The examination will be conducted by Clarence Cross, secretary of the local service commission.

J. M. Stevens, former attorney and mayor of Rushville, has just recovered from a long siege with pneumonia, according to word received here last night. He was in a Marion hospital for several weeks and was in a critical condition for some time.

A set of work harness, belonging to Frank Capp and valued at $50, was found this morning all cut in pieces. The harness was in the stall behind the team of horses, in the J. D. Hiner Second street livery barn. The master was reported to the police, but no clue was left.

The removal of No. 32, the west-bound C. H. & D. train, which formerly, until last Sunday, went through here about 5 o'clock in the morning, has caused somewhat of a stir in Indianapolis because no Cincinnati mail is received there until about eleven o'clock. A postoffice inspector was in Indianapolis yesterday trying to arrange a route that would bring the mail in earlier.

C. F. A. Mitchell, former captain of the Salvation Army here, said that a misunderstanding was abroad that he had received $50 from state headquarters. On the contrary, he said, the state officials had written they would pay him $50 if he would leave the furniture in the Army house here, following the protest from the Rushville Ministerial association. In the first place the Army promised to give the furniture to Mitchell. He has not received the $50 yet, he says.

$100. Cash Prizes For Housewives

WE are doing considerable research work, and would like to know what opinion the women of this town have of Gelatine.

Do you use Gelatine? How do you use it? What brand do you use? Why do you use that brand? Have you originated any special recipes calling for Gelatine? Do you prefer the "flavored packages" to plain Gelatine? Why? Does the fact that most "flavored packages" make only one point as against the two quart plain Gelatine package, make any difference to you?

We want to hear from women who have used Gelatine. It makes no difference what kind. We simply want expressions of opinion direct from the women who use Gelatine. We are willing to pay for them.

For the letter which gives us the most information about Gelatine, we will pay $25.00; for the next best, $15.00; for the next best, $10.00; and for the next best, $5.00 each; total $100.00—each.

CONTEST CLOSES APRIL 11TH

There are no strings to this offer, so sit down and tell us what you know about Gelatine. You stand just as good a chance as anybody else of winning the first prize. We are not looking for masterpieces of literature.

Even if you do not win a cash prize, you will receive a little package of Gelatine, which will repay you well for your effort. May we also have your grocer's name?

CHAPTER IX.

THE next afternoon she began work on an interview with Henry Addison that was destined never to be finished. It was in the private room that was accorded her at the Courier-Journal office that the thing happened.

She had paused in her writing to glance at a headline in the afternoon paper announcing that Glendon was matched with Tom Cannam when one of the doormen brought in a card. It was Glendon's.

"Tell him I can't be seen," she told the boy.

In a minute he was back.

"He says he's coming in anyway, but he'd rather have your permission."

"Did you tell him I was busy?" she asked.

"Yes'm, but he said he was coming just the same."

She made no answer, and the boy, his eyes shining with admiration for the impulsive visitor, rattled on.

"I know 'm. He's a awful big guy. If he started roughhousing he could clean the whole office out. He's young Glendon, who won the fight last night."

"You didn't," he retorted.

"Very well, then. Bring him in. We don't want the office cleaned out, you know."

No greetings were exchanged when Glendon entered.

She was as cold and inhospitable as a gray day and neither invited him to a chair nor recognized him with her eyes, sitting half turned away from him at her desk and waiting for him to state his business.

He gave no sign of how this cavalier treatment affected him, but plunged directly into his subject.

"I want to talk to you," he said shortly. "That fight. It did end in that round."

She shrugged her shoulders.

"I knew it would."

"You didn't," he retorted. "You didn't. I didn't."

She turned and looked at him with quiet affection of boredom.

"What is the use?" she asked. "Prizefighting is prizefighting, and we all know what it means. The fight did end in the round I told you it would."

"It did," he agreed. "But you didn't know it would. In all the world you and I were at least two that knew Powers wouldn't be knocked out in the sixteenth."

She remained silent.

"I say knew he wouldn't."

He spoke peremptorily and, when she still declined to speak, stepped nearer to her.

"Answer me," he commanded.

She nodded her head.

"But he was," she insisted.

"He wasn't. He wasn't knocked out at all. Do you get that? I am going to tell you about it and you are going to listen. I didn't lie to you. Do you get that? I didn't lie to you. I was a fool and they fooled me and you along with me."

"You thought you saw him knocked out. Yet the blow I struck was not heavy enough. It didn't hit him in the right place either. He made believe it did. He faked that knockout."

He paused and looked at her expectantly, and somehow, with a leap and thrill, she knew that she believed him, and she felt pervaded by a warm happiness at the reinstatement of this man who meant nothing to her and whom she had seen but twice in her life.

"Well?" he demanded, and she thrilled anew at the compellingness of him. She stood up, and her hand went out to his.

"I believe you," she said. "And I am glad, most glad."

It was a longer grip than she had anticipated. He looked at her with eyes that burned and to which her own unconsciously answered back.

Never was there such a man, was her thought. Her eyes dropped first, and his followed, so that, as before, both gazed at the clasped hands.

He made a movement of his whole body toward her, impulsive and involuntary, as if to gather her to him, then checked himself abruptly with an unmistakable effort. She saw it and felt the pull of his hand as it started to draw her to him.

And to her amazement she felt the desire to yield, the desire almost overwhelmingly to be drawn into the strong circle of those arms. And had he compelled she knew that she would not have refrained.

She was almost dizzy when he checked himself and, with a closing of his fingers that half crushed hers, dropped her hand, almost flung it from him.

"God," he breathed; "you were made for me!"

He turned partly away from her, sweeping his hand to his forehead. She knew she would hate him forever if he dared one stammered word of apology or explanation.

But he seemed to have the way always of doing the right thing where she was concerned. She sank into her chair, and he into another, first drawing it around so as to face her across the corner of the desk.

"I spent last night in a Turkish bath," he said. "I sent for an old broken down bruiser. He was a friend of my father in the old days. I knew there couldn't be a thing about the ring he didn't know, and I made him talk.

"The funny thing was that it was all I could do to convince him that I didn't know the things I asked him about. He called me the babe in the woods. I guess he was right. I was raised in the woods, and woods is about all I know.

"Well, I received an education from that old man last night. The ring is rotten to you told me. It seems everybody connected with it is crooked. The very supervisors that grant the fight permits graft off of the promoters, and the promoters, managers and fighters graft off of each other and off the public.

"It's down to a system in one way, and, on the other hand, they're always—do you know what the double cross is?" She nodded. "Well, they don't seem to miss a chance to give each other the double cross.

"The stuff that old man told me took my breath away. And here I've been in the thick of it for several years and knew nothing of it. I was a real babe in the woods. And yet I can see how I've been fooled. I was so made that nobody could stop me. I was bound to win, and, thanks to Stubener, everything crooked was kept away from me.

"This morning I cornered Spider Walsh and made him talk. He was my first trainer, you know, and he followed Stubener's instructions. They kept me in ignorance. Besides, I didn't herd with the sporting crowd. I spent my time hunting and fishing and monkeying with cameras and such things.

"Do you know what Walsh and Stubener called me between themselves? The virgin. I only learned it this morning from Walsh, and it was like pulling teeth. And they were right. I was a little innocent lamb.

"And Stubener was using me for crookedness, too, only I didn't know it. I can look back now and see how it was worked. But you see, I wasn't interested enough in the game to be interested in handkerchiefs."

He held up his hand again before replying.

"You can shop in Sacramento. We'll get married there and catch the night overland north. I'll arrange everything by telegraph from the train."

"To the ferry. We've just time to catch that Sacramento train."

"But I can't go this way," she protested. "I—I haven't even a change of handkerchiefs."

He held up his hand again before replying.

"You can shop in Sacramento. We'll get married there and catch the night overland north. I'll arrange everything by telegraph from the train."

"As the cab drew to the curb she looked quickly about her at the familiar street and the familiar throng, then, with almost a flurry of alarm, into Glendon's face.

"I don't know a thing about you," she said.

"We know everything about each other," was his answer.

She felt the support and urge of his arms and lifted her foot to the step.

The next moment the door had closed, he was beside her and the cab was heading down Market street.

He passed his arm around her, drew her close and kissed her. When next she glimpsed his face she was certain that it was dyed with a faint blush.

"I've heard there was an art in kissing," he stammered. "I don't know anything about it myself, but I'll learn. You see, you're the first woman I ever kissed."

"I don't dare," she said in a whisper.

her mind to wonder if it were hypnotism.

She wanted to glance about her at the familiar objects of the room in order to identify herself with reality, but she could not take her eyes from his. Nor did she speak.

He had stepped beside her. His hand was on her arm, and she leaned toward him involuntarily.

It was all part of the dream, and it was no longer hers to question anything. It was the great dare.

He was right. She could dare what she wanted, and she did want. He was helping her into her jacket. She was thrusting the hat pins through her hair.

And even as she realized it, she found herself walking beside him through the opened door.

The "Flight of the Duchess" and "The Statue and the Bust" darted through her mind. Then she remembered "Waring."

"What's become of Waring?" she murmured.

"Land travel or sea faring?" he murmured back.

And to her this kindred sufficient note was a vindication of her madness.

At the entrance of the building he raised his hand to call a taxi, but was stopped by her touch on his arm.

"Where are we going?" she breathed.

"To the ferry. We've just time to catch that Sacramento train."

"But I can't go this way," she protested. "I—I haven't even a change of handkerchiefs."

He held up his hand again before replying.

Stop Catarrah

Use Hyomei—You Breathe It

Unless properly treated this disease often leads to a serious if not fatal ailment. It is needless to allow catarrah to ruin your health—use Hyomei—it is certainly effective relief for catarrah ills. It's the direct-to-the-spot treatment. You breathe it—no stomach dosing. No household should be without Hyomei. It not only gives quick and lasting benefit in cases of catarrah but is one of the surest and most pleasant treatments for head colds, sniffles or croup of children.

It had come with the suddenness of a thunderclap, and yet she felt that she had been expecting it. Her heart was beating up and almost choking her in a strangely delicious way. Here at least was the primitive and the simple with a vengeance. Then, too, it seemed a dream. Such things did not take place in modern newspaper offices. Love could not be made in such fashion; it only so occurred on the stage and in novels.

He had arisen and was holding out both hands to her.

"I don't dare," she said in a whisper, half to herself. "I don't dare."

And thereter she was stung by the quick contempt that flashed in his eyes but that swiftly changed to open incredulity.

"You'd dare anything you wanted," he was saying. "I know that. It's not a case of dare, but of want. Do you want?"

He had arisen and was now swaying as if in a dream. It flashed into

A Valuable Suggestion Important to Everyone

It is now conceded by physicians that the kidneys should have more attention than they control the other organs to a remarkable degree and do a tremendous amount of work in removing the poisons and waste matter from the system by filtering the blood.

During the winter months especially, when we live an indoor life, the kidneys should receive some assistance when needed, as we take less exercise drink less water and often eat more rich heavy food, thereby forcing the kidneys to do more work than Nature intended.

Evidence of kidney trouble, such as lame back, annoying bladder troubles, smarting or burning, brick-dust or sediment, sallow complexion, rheumatism, may be weak or irregular heart action, warns you that your kidneys require help immediately to avoid more serious trouble.

Many physicians claim that an herbal medicine containing no minerals or opiates has the most healing influence. An ideal herbal compound that has had most remarkable success as a kidney and bladder remedy is Dr. Kilmer's Swamp Root.

You may receive a sample bottle of Swamp-Root by Parcel Post. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., and enclose ten cents; also mention the Rushville Daily Republican.

The council is in favor of installing water meters every place in the city where city water is used. The general opinion was that this would be the best way to save water but it was thought the rate was too low. It was suggested that a minimum charge of $1.25 a quarter or $5 a year be enforced. The question of rate change was simply discussed and if a change is made it will be necessary to go before the public service commission.

The council instructed the chief of police to notify the contractor at the Masonic Temple to stop using dynamite in excavating. The council believed that it was dangerous and thought there was a better way of getting the old concrete out than with dynamite. The contractor was also informed that he could not close the alley on the south. The council believed that closing the alley might prove dangerous in case of fire. According to the city attorney, the city has no power to close an alley.

The Rushville Furniture factory asked that a fire alarm box be placed near their factory. The closest box is about four blocks distant and for the protection of the factory and the residents in Stewart-Tompkins addition a box will likely be placed in East Twelfth street. The fire committee was given power to purchase an alarm box and determine its location. The box alone costs $125 and it was estimated that the box could be installed for a total of $160.

Superintendent Mahin suggested to the council that the small pump in East First street be removed and placed in the well at the city park. The well at the park gives twenty-eight gallons per minute or 35,000 gallons every twenty-four hours and Mr. Mahin estimated that the change could be made for $160. He was instructed to make the change. The well in which the pump is now located is back of the Hiner livery stable in East Second street and the well contains gas from the abandoned gas well. The well in the park was drilled by the old council in 1911 when a search was being made for water. The well was not thought large enough for city use and was capped.

WILL CONTEST COMPROMISED

WILL PRACTICALLY UPHELD

Plaintiffs, Children and Grandchildren of Deceased, Each Receive Small Sum of Money.

A will contest suit over the estate of the late Sarah J. Meal of Orange township, which was originally filed in the Rush circuit court but was taken to the Shelby circuit court on a change of venue, was compromised in court at Shelbyville yesterday.

In the compromise each of the plaintiffs, a son, daughter, four children of a deceased daughter and her husband, were each paid a small sum and the will was upheld, leaving the farm of sixty acres near Blue Ridge in the possession of a son, James Meal, the beneficiary of the will.

In addition the terms of the compromise provide that James Meal must pay all of the debts of the estate, the funeral expenses, the costs of settling the estate, with the exception of the will contest suit, which must be divided among the plaintiffs.

Mrs. Meal died February 1, 1913, and left her farm and most of the personal property to her son, James. The document provides that $600 should be divided among the other heirs, Frank J. Meal and Mrs. Samantha Inlow, children of the deceased, were to receive $200 each and the other $200 was to be divided among Charles W. Lewis, husband of a deceased daughter, and her children, George M. Lewis, William Lewis, Mary J. Platt and Leona Platt.

The will was made May 1, 1889, and was admitted to probate in the circuit court here February 15, 1913. All of the heirs, with the exception of the chief beneficiary, brought suit to contest the will.

In addition to James Meal, Lafayette Peck, executor of the will, was a defendant.

be made at once," he declared. "Yet he has been talked about as though he were a cheap trickster or trader, dickering in wares and seeking to impose on the credulity of customers. He has been requested to divulge state secrets and lay bare to the world dangerous points."

Pleading for the use of the Golden Rule in the tolls matter and defending the president's position thereon, Sims, father of the tolls repeal bill this afternoon argued that the United States will not be in bad faith if it exempts coastwise shipping.

He expressed the opinion that coastwise shippers would never have kept silent nine years had they thought at the time of passage of the Hay-Paunceforte treaty that their ships were not included in the "equal treatment" terms thereof.

"The very fact that the coastwise shipping treatment made no claim of this kind pending the negotiation of the treaty," he said, "or, subsequent thereto is the highest circumstantial evidence that they did not so understand the terms of the treaty themselves."

He held it "dishonorable" to demand now what had not been asked at that time.

The unusual spectacle of the leader of the House majority leading the fight against a policy advocated by the titular head of his party was furnished in the House this afternoon.

Representative Oscar W. Underwood of Alabama, chairman of the Ways and Means committee, vigorously opposed repeal of the exemp-
